This bathroom remodel renovation was truly unique. The client has ALS, a degenerative neuron disease, and needed to convert a brand new 18th floor condo bathroom into an accessible bathroom. Returning from Florida to the DC area in less than a month, the modifications had to be done relatively quickly. The renovation included relocating some existing items and installing others completely new. The result of the project was a redesigned condo bathroom that looked beautiful and provided the functionality that the homeowner desired. The homeowner's didn't see the project until it was complete and were truly shocked by the transformation.
